

History of Waystone Property Management

Waystone Property Management began in 1979 with a partnership between William White and Lana Dawkins on the cusp of the digital age with a strong desire for being providers of the finer things in life. With backgrounds in interior design, providing homes that raise the bar for luxury living was not only a possibility, but a passion of Waystone. Waystone Property Management bought its first property in Miami, Florida, a city filled with some of the greatest art in the world. That amazing art inspired the unprecedented attention to visual quality which every Waystone apartment building is characterized by. The success from Waystone's original investment allowed the expansion to three more properties within a two years' time.

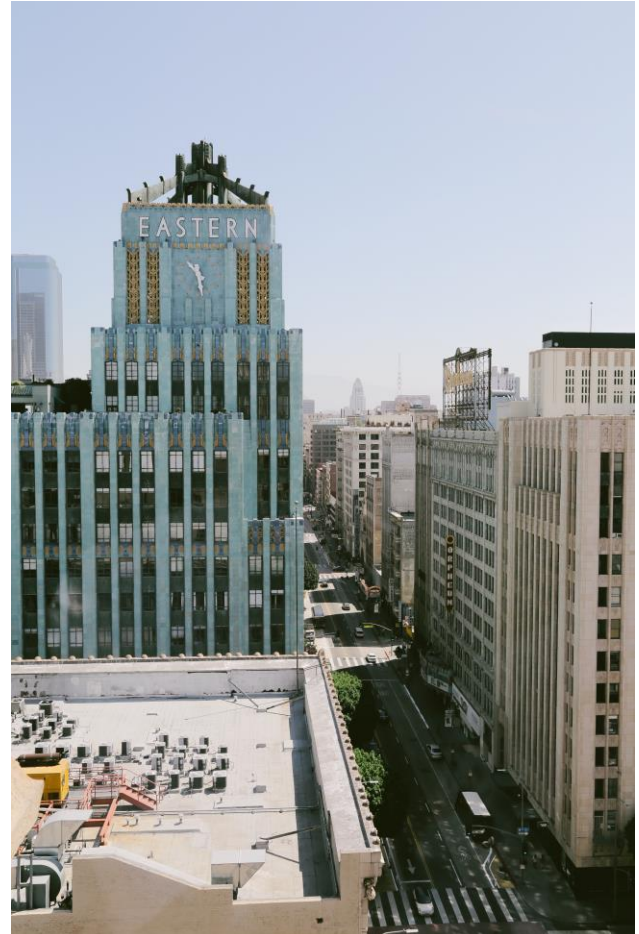

After this success, Waystone moved north to one of the most iconic cities ever created, New York City. This great city now houses three luxury properties providing the big apple with an unforgettable living experience. Waystone properties look to provide the most enjoyable home base in such a complex and historic location.

Waystone looked next to the windy city of Chicago, whose pizza, sports, and music demand to be enjoyed in nothing but the best living space possible. Property locations were strategically picked to minimize travel times while still providing you with peaceful nights and endless service when you decide to come home.

History of Waystone Property Management

Finally, Waystone moved west to Las Vegas and Los Angeles; each extremely unique and each holding three properties like every other city the company services. It is known that the bar for exceptional quality of living and service is high in these great cities and Waystone meets that with a memorable living experience to pair perfectly with these memorable cities. Waystone Property Management is now 200 employees strong and every single employee at your location will do whatever they can to make your decision to live in one of our properties the right one.
